

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I own a cell phone in case of emergency, as I live, work and travel in an extremely remote rural area. Luckily I've never had to use the phone, but I need it just in case. If the expense of having phone service, either at home or while traveling, becomes more expensive I will have to let go of this safety feature in my life.

I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable. I do not want to pay more for my telephone service!

Keep the USF Fair!
